Child Abuse Prevention Month

April marks National Child Abuse Prevention (CAP) Month. This is a time to spread awareness about child abuse and connect with community resources to help prevent child abuse from occurring. Every child deserves to grow up in a home that is safe, stable and nurturing. During the month of April take some time to connect with community resources, attend an information session or volunteer at a local shelter to more learn about that efforts that are happening all around the state of West Virginia to help ensure every child feels safe and secure in their homes.
